

WILL CONTINUE JANESVILLE FAIR ON SATURDAY

FAIR CROWD THROUG THE SHOW TODAY

ADDED DAY DECIDED ON BY THE FAIR MANAGEMENT PLEASES CITIZENS GENERALLY.

A $1,000,000 PARADE

There will be an added day for the Janesville fair of 1916. The rain of yesterday having prevented the carrying out of the afternoon program, the fair management has decided to add Saturday night rather than double up the program of the day this afternoon.

The meat that the Thursday race program, which included the 2:18 race, the 2:18 trot, the 2:07 pace and the three-year-old race, were all held this afternoon. It was a most excellent program and kept the race following on edge until the last race. Flaws kept the field of horses moving. While the rain had flooded the tracks Thursday, the Janesville fair management, under the supervision of Assistant Chief Clerk, were on the ground shortly after four this morning and mopped out all the water basins and by noon the track was faster than it has been during the entire week. The absence of the heat was noticed by the grandstand habitués and the horsemen were delighted.

One-third came the stock parade, the first of the week's features, which was a wonderful display of the finest blooded stock in the west. The parade in front of the grandstand, where the blue ribbons were given round after round of applause and the unusual display of fine stock was commented upon by visitors who saw the exhibit. Two hundred and fifty boys were stationed in leading the stock, and was enjoyed by persons interested in stock.

Thursday marked a difference between the fair management and some persons who objected to the show conducted by one of the side show attractions. An inspection, by fifteen or twenty persons, who saw the same show that was given by the fair management, proved to be a man disapproved of the part and the show continued. By the same show had previously been passed in by the state inspector, who visited the fair the first of the week.

Today's attendance, while not as large as hoped for, was still an average and the management hope by continuing the exhibit and racing, that they will be able to show another day at the end of the week. It has been one of the finest displays in the state in years, and the fair management have expressed their wonder at the various exhibits and the management.

The band, Edgerton and Janesville bands, making a total of eight musicians, delighted the audience with their concert and Miss Wagon and Miss Gallagher gave their songs, which have delighted the crowds in the past few days. The free vaudeville "stunts" were also at their best and as all these attractions will lack nothing from the week, rain and the entire program be carried out.

Tomorrow's race program includes the 2:18 trot, the 2:28 trot and the 2:02 pace.

When the second heat of the 2:18 race was called this afternoon, Cecil May was the first heat. Thurst, a bay mare owned by Meona De Forest, a boy mare owned by John Miller of Manitowish, broke away from her driver and dashed into an aisle of the grandstand, where she was struck on the head and showed blood. An unknown woman down. She was not injured, but slightly bruised and refused to give her name. The heat was called off.

In the third heat of the 2:18 trot, Barton Bates was first, Black Bore second, Janifest, third, and the others finished in the following order: Harry, Mammoth, Red Band, Maude, Nark, an added starter, Jessie D. and Direct Patch. June Todd and Rita were scratched. Time—2:18.4.

The second heat of the 2:02 pace, Ella M. second, Blue Line, third, and Strathell, fourth. Onward Sam was scratched. Time—2:06.3.

Janesville's Big Fair and Live Stock Exposition still attracts hundreds of people from miles around and the show will be continued a day longer. Many more will have a chance to see this wonderful fair. All the cattle and live stock exhibits will be on at the grounds until the final closing time which is Saturday evening at six o'clock. The Janesville board have more than made good their efforts in making the local show one of the best in the country in the live stock end and in all other departments. When one walks through the "live barns" many statements are being said, never before in the history of Wisconsin cattle shows has such a fine bunch of stock been gathered together.

Judges Hugh Van Pelt of Waterloo, Iowa, and J. L. Tormey of Madison, have completed the judging of the stock both in the dairy and beef breeds. In each class the competition was keen and the second, thirds and fourths run close to the grand winners. The Jean Du Luth Stock Farm of Duluth, Minnesota, cleaned up in their class. In the dairy breed division they have the grand champion bull of any age and the grand champion cow of the same class. Dr. David Roberts, first premium for a grand champion bull of any age. H. Tubbs of Elkhorn, in his class. The Elm Leaf Stock Farm of Belvidere, Illinois, took a number of premium, cleaned up in showing of high grade cattle. The James Van Etta, herd from Lima, Arnold of Galveston has a grand champion bull of any age, Chester Rogers and son of Union Center were awarded first prize for the grand champion cow in the same class. In the Herford breed, J. C. In the Red Polled class the Jean Duluth farm took premiums and was awarded grand champion cow of any age. The awarding of ribbons has been completed and it is easy for persons visiting the pens to recognize the winners. W. O. Douglas of Janesville, is the most creditable showing in the Jersey class.

In the swine department John L. Fisher took the premium for the grand champion board of the show. This prize animal weighs nine hundred and forty pounds and is the largest on exhibition at the fair. Edward H. Parker made a big showing with his high grade pigs. He has the grand champion sow, also won the special silver trophy prize offered by the National Duroc Jersey Record association for the best litter of four Duroc Jersey pigs. Mr. Parker took a number of first, second and third prizes. C. S. Flesch of Mt. Ida, Wisconsin, exhibitor of Poland China stock, has first and second grand champion board, Charles Matley, John Little of Janesville and Martin and Son of Union Center took many premiums in the different classes. In the Berkshire breed George Clark of this city took all the prizes.

Never before has there been such a fine bunch of horses exhibited at a Janesville fair, ven back in the olden days. Van Etta, with his prize bunch, took grand champion of the draft breed and grand champion mare of any breed. McLaughlin brothers of Janesville made a good showing with their exhibit and race horses. There is also a large showing of ponies. John Morton took first premium for grand champion stallion and D. Wikom of Milton grand champion mare.

Prizes in the corn contest went to four Janesville boys, Ralph Morse, first; Hector Bleasdale, second; Roscoe Korn, and Leo Monogue. The same four boys took prizes in the potato contest. One Bleasdale went to first and Morse second. A great deal of interest was shown by the boys in these contests.

BRYAN REPLYS TO HUGHES STATEMENT

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Kansas City, Aug. 11.—William J. Bryan, former secretary of state, replied here today to criticism of his attitude toward civil service made by Charles E. Hughes, the republican presidential nominee, in a statement published in the New York Times. Bryan challenged the republican nominee to state whether he had given appointment to "deserving republicans" while governor of New York.

WILSON WILL MAKE A CAMPAIGN TOUR ACROSS CONTINENT

President Will Make Speech-Making Trip to Pacific Coast, It is Definitely Decided.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, Aug. 11.—President Wilson has decided to make a speaking trip across the continent. No details of the tour have been arranged, but it is understood today that his itinerary will be worked out within the next few weeks.

The president's advisers have been urging him to make a number of speeches, but he has been withholding a decision until the work of congress has progressed further. It was definitely known today, however, that if present plans were carried out the president would go to the Pacific coast. One of the suggestions is for the president to review some of the troops on the border, but no decision on that has been reached.

Invitations from cities in all parts of the country are before the president, but none have been accepted until they have been gone over carefully by Vance McCormick, chairman of the democratic national committee, and other democratic leaders. The possibility that congress may reconvene in session after September 1 is preventing the president from making any definite campaign plans. He wants to make no long trip from Washington until after adjournment. The president will receive campaign delegations at Long Branch, New Jersey.

VOTE ON SHIPPING BILL ANTICIPATED

Republicans in Senate Will Permit Measure to Come to a Vote Late Saturday or Monday.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, Aug. 11.—Republicans of the senate indicated today that they will permit a vote on the administration shipping bill late Saturday or Monday. This developed while Senators Jones and Gallinger were questioning Senator Simmons' amendment to the revenue bill. Senator Simmons said he hoped to have the revenue measure ready for the committee Monday, and to report it to the senate Tuesday. Meanwhile the Democrats will call up the workmen's compensation bill or Philippine conference report. Senator Jones opposing the shipping bill argued that even if the measure should reduce ocean freight rates for foreign importers, rather than American shippers, would be the beneficiary. Senator Fletcher submitted an amendment to provide that regulations or practices of foreign governments operate to discriminate against vessels of the United States, it would be the duty of the shipping board to report to the president for diplomatic action or to be brought to the attention of congress.

HUGHES CONTINUES ON TRIP TO COAST

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 11.—Charles E. Hughes, republican nominee for president, left Fargo early today on a revised schedule of travel, enabling him to deliver an evening address at Billings, Montana, tonight. Mr. Hughes had not intended to leave here until 5:47 this morning, but found that he could accommodate his schedule to change, and accordingly left at one o'clock a. m.

The strain of the campaign has seriously affected the nominee's voice, which was so hoarse at times during his speech here last night that he had to stop frequently for a few seconds at a time. Mr. Hughes is trying to overcome the hoarseness incidentally by unaccustomed continuous speaking by not talking on the train except when imperative.

Makes Short Stops. The route across the plains to the Montana line was broken by a series of short stops. The first of these was at Bismarck for ten minutes. At Mandan and Dickinson two minute stops were made. At Medora, where Theodore Roosevelt spent part of his early life on a ranch, a five minute stop is scheduled. At Glacier House and at Billings, Montana. The party is due at Billings at 7:30 tonight.

GOVERNOR A VISITOR IN JANESVILLE

ARRIVES THIS EVENING TO SPEAK AT THE HOME COMING EXERCISES IN THE PARK.

MRS. BOND TO SING

Special Program Has Been Arranged for the Enjoyment of Crowds.—Jeffris Club to Act as Escort for Governor.

Governor Philipp and Hon. L. C. Whitteit of Edgerton will arrive in Janesville this evening at seven o'clock. They will be met at the depot by a committee of the Home Coming management and escorted to the hotel. Later the Jeffris Republican club, which will assemble at the city hall at 7:15, will escort the governor and his party to Court House Janesville Home Coming celebration. Mrs. Carrie Jacobs Bond, who was born and brought up in Janesville and whose songs and delightful music have pleased thousands the world over is here for the Home Coming and she has promised to sing one of her latest selections for her old home friends. It is a rare opportunity for the residents of Janesville who desire to honor her, to hear her sing her own music, and doubtless there will be a packed house.

Mrs. Bond has always been loyal to Janesville and delights to return here. Her old friends will greet her this evening with enthusiasm and her appearance here tonight will be the climax of the week of the Home Coming committee's efforts to ring together the town residents.

The Bower City Band will furnish the instrumental music and Miss Gallagher, Miss Wenger and Robert Daley will furnish vocal selections. It is expected that about 7:45 p. m. Philipp's address there will also be a short talk by Mr. Whitteit.

Tonight's detailed program for the Home Coming is as follows: Bower City Band meet Jeffris club at city hall at 7:15. March to Myers House to escort Governor Philipp to Court House Park at 7:30 p. m. One of the Home Coming letters received that will be of interest to readers is the following: Eagle Grove, Aug. 3, '16. "The Home Committee", Janesville, Wisconsin. Your kind invitation to participate in Janesville's Home Coming and Big Fair on August 8, 9, 10 and 11th, 1916, was received with a thrill as it brought back recollections of happy bygone days spent in the impressive period of childhood.

If nothing intervenes I will be present to renew the acquaintance of those whom I never can forget. Of course there are many of my dear friends laid away in Oak Hill and Mt. Olivet.

"Bunker Hill", "Snipe Hill", "Fox Hall", "Montevideo" and "Black Hawk" are all good friends, and will ever be green in my memory.

Among the many incidents of early youth is one vividly recalled when the "Gas House" boys met and vanquished a bunch from the "Patch" in a pitched battle on the old Western Star Grounds. Perhaps the boys from the "Patch" might take exception to this statement, as also might the contingent from Fox Hall and Black Hawk, but I am sure that with similar result, but the old Times of Janesville will agree with me that the boys from the vicinity of "Bunker Hill" never took a back seat in physical encounters or other things athletic.

We will miss such characters as Anse Rogers, Jim Van Etta, Paddy McGinley, Nick Crozinger, "Had" Watson, Johnny Sheridan (the old "Gas House" boys), and many other old timers who have passed to their reward. I presume, however, that some of the younger generation, but who are now considerable timers, are still there, such as "Cub" Smith, the Sutherland boys, Orey, Art and Mtn., Tom Morrissey, Jack Doran, Denny McGinley, Fred Clemons, Jack O'Hara, Henry Brazee and many others who never fail to extend the hand of welcome to their old Janesville friends.

Frank M. Whitney, formerly of Magnolia, is chief Italia dispatcher on the Northern Iowa division of the Chicago & Northwestern railway with headquarters at Eagle Grove, and, if possible, will attend Janesville's "Home Coming." Mat Spangler, formerly of Albany, and who always made Janesville his market town, is also located here and a wealthy and influential citizen of this county, calls in my office frequently to talk over old days and often mentions Frank and Cal Broughton, Mr. Douglas, owner of "Ladkin Douglas", "Doc Martin", H. D. McKinney, Doc Whiting, "Josh" Corning, owner and driver of "Lady White Stockings".

THOUGHT MESSAGE WAS FROM U-BOAT

Wireless Signal Message Received at Stations at First Thought to be from German U-Boat.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] New York, Aug. 11.—The wireless signal picked up at Sandy Hook early today, which it was first thought might be from a German submarine, was later determined to be from a German freighter Bremer. Later it was attributed to some amateur operator by officials of Atlantic Communication Company operators of the so-called Telefunken system. The call were for the "Telefunken Station, New York." The conclusion that an amateur was responsible, was reached after wireless operators at all government and shipping stations in and around New York Bay had tried fruitlessly for hours to locate the sender.

STRIKE SITUATION STILL A DEADLOCK; MAY GO TO WILSON

Federal Mediators Are No Nearer a Solution of Railroad Troubles Than When They Began Deliberations.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] New York, Aug. 11.—After deliberating the greater part of the night, commissioners Wm. A. Chamber, Martin A. Knapp and G. W. Hanger of the United States board of mediation and conciliation, were today no nearer a solution of the deadlock in the dispute between the four railroad brotherhoods of the country and their employers, than they were yesterday. The efforts of the mediators to avert a nation-wide strike were virtually at a halt due to the fact, it was reported, that the railroads refused to grant any concession other than arbitration, while the men persist in their firm stand for the unequivocal granting of their demands for an eight hour day and time and a half for overtime.

A formal request for a twenty-four hour delay in the negotiations was made by the federal board to the union men today when they assembled to leave the mediators' headquarters. It was reported that the board unless there was an unexpected change in the situation in that time, was prepared to suggest to President Wilson that he intervene.

No definite proposal for a settlement of the controversy between the railroad systems and four brotherhoods of railway men has been made. The board of mediation and conciliation resumed today its efforts to settle the dispute by mediation.

NEUTRAL RELIEF TO SYRIA IS REFUSED

Turkish Government Denies Aid to Starving Civilians in War Devastated Regions.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, Aug. 11.—Turkey has refused to grant the request of the United States that a neutral country be permitted to undertake relief work in Syria, where thousands of native Christians are reported to be starving.

George Miller of Constantinople, in a cablegram received at the state department today, said the Turkish government had informed the United States that in Syria were considered unnecessary, because the crops there were better than anywhere else in the empire. He added that although he was told the decision was final, he had not dropped the subject, but would continue to press favorable action.

On July 5 the department instructed Mr. Miller to call attention to the fact that there has been no action in this matter, and to say to the Turkish foreign office that continued failure to permit relief work would put a severe strain on the relations between the United States and Turkey.

DESCRIBES CAPTURE OF GORITZ FORT

FRENCH CORRESPONDENT TELLS OF SUPERB ADVANCE OF ITALIAN ARMY INTO STRONGHOLD.

STILL PUSH FORWARD

Fighting Is Now in Progress Beyond the City Where Italian Pursuit of the Austrians Continues.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Paris, Aug. 11.—"Entering Gorizia, via Leon, the sight that meets the eye is most striking," telegraphs the Petit Parisien's correspondent on the Isonzo front. "It was here that a furious battle was fought for the possession of the city. The houses are half destroyed by shells, or riddled with bullets."

Tells of Superb Advance. "The ground is strewn with bodies, uniforms, hats and rifles. The artillery duel continued above our heads, and enemy aeroplanes whirled across the sky, shot at by our gunners, while in the distance could be heard the furious cracking of machine guns."

The spectacle before us was superb. Over an iron bridge our batteries passed at a trot. The Austrian artillery sent toward them whirlwinds of shells, the smoke from which blotted out our columns from time to time. When the smoke blew away, one could see the batteries still proceeding on their triumphant way, the men from the line regiments yelled, went and clapped their hands in enthusiasm. Some of the gunners fell wounded, but the drive was not stopped and our guns began to get near the enemy.

Resume Normal Conditions. "As soon as we passed the first houses and got into the city, the aspect of things changed completely. Normal life was resuming its course, and if it had not been for the echoes of the struggle one would not have known that a battle was in progress nearby. In the Corso, on one of the principal streets, a big cafe was opened, filled with officers, soldiers and civilians, the troops and citizens patronized the cafe, and the Italian entry into the city. Our flags floated from windows of all the houses."

The population has almost all returned, for the first time. The Austrians forced the inhabitants to leave the city itself, but they remained scattered throughout the environs of the place, waiting the retreat of the enemy to make their way back.

Force Austrian Retreat. Rome, Aug. 10, via Paris, Aug. 11. The importance of the Italian successes around Gorizia, is becoming more evident hourly. The battle is continuing behind the city over a front about twelve miles long. The Austrians have retreated along the railroad in a series of stages, and over the national highway to Schona pass six miles to the east, and are now attempting to reform their front on a line extending from Vipacco, to Tarnova.

Meanwhile, the Austrians are attempting to take the offensive at the end of the Italian line, but have been unable to divert the Italians from their operations behind Gorizia. Popular enthusiasm in Italy is at high tide. The army is being reformed in the north, and the Italian army is pouring in from all parts of the world to King Victor Emanuel and General Cadorna. The King and commander in chief have been particularly bitter in their criticism of the British government's policy of not permitting to reach the consignee here.

FOODS THEY BUILD OR DESTROY

Amazing but rarely suspected truths about the things you eat.
By ALFRED W. McCANN (Copyright, 1916, by Alfred W. McCann.)

CHAPTER 96.

The injurious effects of sulphurous acid upon human life as well as upon vegetation have been established in the courts through litigation that began in 1905 and did not end until 1915. In the meantime, the people still continue to consume sulphurous acid in the form of the facts.

Under the publication of Food Inspection Decision No. 76 (1907) concerning the harmfulness of sulphur dioxide, people living in and around the county, Calaveras, and in the vicinity of the operation of the San Joaquin and Lead company's plant.

The people produced evidence to the fact that sulphurous acid or sulphur dioxide liberated by the smelting of copper was not only destroying the vegetation of the surrounding country but was injuring the health of the people.

In 1905 the authorities began suit against the smelter. After a stormy litigation the courts held in 1908 that the smelter really was harming the people of Calaveras county and enjoined them from further injury.

Further litigation followed and the people continued to suffer from the plant of sulphurous acid or sulphur dioxide which escaped the smelter until 1912 when the supreme court confirmed the decision of the lower court and ordered the smelter company to obey the law.

In 1913 the people again complained that the injunction was being ignored by the smelter, whereupon the authorities and the company officials agreed to leave the question to a commission of experts.

An investigation was conducted which began in June, 1913, and ended in December, 1914.

As a result of this investigation a report was made to the bureau of mines and published.

The commission of experts found that the sulphurous acid was being emitted by the operation of the plant prior to the injunction. Their conclusions had been justified.

The sulphurous acid which escaped the smelter caused the destruction of the vegetables and crops of the neighborhood.

Seasonable is the bleaching agent used in the dried fruit industry that the commission found it to be harmful to man in the proportion of 35 parts of sulphurous acid to 1,000,000 parts of fruit.

It was found that two parts of the gas in 1,000,000 parts of air applied for four hours at one time or for ten minutes a day had such an injurious effect upon plant life that it actually retarded the yield of barley studied during the investigation.

These facts apparently have not been withheld from Dr. M. E. Jaffa, the doctor.

Those interested are not wedded to the sulphur process, but it is real ized that up to date there has not been offered a process which is practical which can take the place of sulphur.

"It is thus seen that under existing conditions the sulphuring of some fruits is a necessity if the industry is to be preserved."

"Grapes intended for human consumption should be subjected to sulphur fumes," he continues. "Successful drying can be and has been practiced without the use of sulphur."

"In the case of the apricot and peach the oxidation of the sulphurous compounds to sulphuric (a deadly poison) is slow and sometimes appreciable, similarly with reference to the apple and pear."

"When we consider the grape in this connection there is presented an entirely different state of affairs."

"Samples of Thomson seedling grapes and other small grapes have been tested with the result that while the limit indicated by Food Inspection Decision No. 76, viz., less than 350 milligrams per kilo, the sulphuric acid per kilo approximated ten times as much."

"Sulphured grapes are rarely washed or soaked before cooking. They are eaten raw or in cake or bread. In either case there is ingested with the raisin the injurious acid compounds."

"The same is true as regards the desiccated bleached potato."

"After making these alarming statements Dr. Jaffa holds the housewife responsible for the abuses to which he refers."

"It is true," he declares, "that the grower tries to produce in his output a high degree of color. The consumer did not demand intensely yellow fruit there would be no sale for it."

"The consumer did not demand yellow butter there would be no sale for yellow butter."

"Fruit is colored by the grower so as to get a higher price for his goods. 'Coloring' is waiting, anxiously waiting, for the food inspection decision of the United States department of agriculture indicating its position with reference to the sulphuring of fruit."

"California realizes that the industry is important. To maintain its industry it is necessary to process the fruit before drying. Sulphuring is the only practical process now available. Hence it must be used."

"Sulphuring is not necessary for all fruits. The grower is willing to put on the market a less highly colored fruit if the consumer will use it."

In other words, declares Dr. Jaffa, the government, however dangerous the use of sulphurous acid may be to the consumer, must not interfere with the welfare of an industry that depends for its success upon its right to employ ingredients injurious to human health.

GOV. PHILIPP OPENS PRIMARY CAMPAIGN IN BARABOO SPEECH

Reviews His Two Years' Administration Giving Figures From Records Showing Tax Reductions.

Baraboo, Wis., Aug. 11.—Governor Emanuel L. Philipp opened his primary campaign last night with a speech in which he reviewed the work of his department since he had been governor and outlined his policies if re-elected.

He described the session of the legislature in which he said, he was opposed by his political opponents whenever he tried to carry out a promise to the people, but he gave figures showing that the expenditures of his department had been reduced nearly $800,000 in one year, and also showed the savings in taxes.

Governor Philipp will speak at Janesville Friday night and will fill several speaking dates next week. He will not make a continued tour of the state, however, because of his work in the governor's office.

That the net disbursements of the state in 1915, the last fiscal year of McGovern's administration were $18,930,333.48. That in 1916, the first year under Philipp, the disbursements were $15,211,161.51, the saving being $3,719,171.97.

That in spite of the attempt to load the appropriations the total for his legislature had been $20,753,246.72, as compared with $20,743,498.12 by the last McGovern legislature.

That the tax levy made by his administration in 1915 was $4,430,736 as compared with $3,373,353, the levy made in 1914 by McGovern, the saving in taxes being $1,057,383.

That the saving as compared with the levy in 1913 made by McGovern was $5,224,582.

That every cent of state taxes collected went for schools.

That the prediction made by Senator La Follette that the state would be bankrupt had been proven untrue, the balance in the general fund on July 1, 1916, being more than $2,000,000.

That the conservation commission, which consolidated four departments, had saved $41,727 in one year.

That the state printing board had saved $30,680.83 in one year.

NO SUPPORT GIVEN; SHE HAD TOO MANY GENTLEMEN FRIENDS

Mrs. Ortwin Bohlman, Nee Lola Ray, Loses Non-Support Claims Before Judge Lange.

"The Letters From the Other Men" proved the downfall of Lola Ray, 1320 Elizabeth street in municipal court yesterday, where she had started non-support proceedings against her husband, Ortwin Bohlmann, 770 South Main street. Acting Judge Lange, as a result of the disclosure made by the defendant's counsel, Attorney Edward H. Ryan, dismissed the complaint and discharged Bohlmann.

The thirteenth of November, 1915, the date of their marriage, might not have something to do with their trouble. From what the girl told on the stand there was constant trouble as in where they were to live. He was making good money at Chicago, but she did not want to live in the Windy City.

They separated in the spring of this year. After District Attorney Dunwiddie had placed the plaintiff on the stand and finished his questioning, Attorney Ryan started cross-examination. Denials, counter-denials and admissions followed in movie reel rapidity until he asked the question, "Once you separated did you ever keep company with any other men or man and did you ever receive any mail matter from any other man?" She answered, "No." Whereupon Mr. Ryan produced a packet of ten letters.

"No," she could not identify them, having never seen them before and as she had never used the name of "Lola Ray," her maiden name, the letters must have been meant for some other person with this name. Of course Morris Williams, Romeo Holland and George Silvert, the names signed to the missives were friends of hers, but "absolutely no, they never wrote to me." Then again, Williams' non de plume, "James Lee," which he assumed at Minneapolis, was unknown to her. How should she know that Morris was going under this name? Morris' wife, by the way, has started divorce proceedings in circuit court. She also has just finished a non-support action in municipal court and Williams is paying her two dollars each week for her support until she can get her divorce. He is a Bachelor Judge. The case was up last week.

Judge Lange couldn't see where Lola had grounds for the action, so he threw it out of court altogether.

to relieve want and suffering. In Madison twelve year old girls are making handkerchiefs that will find their way into European hospitals. Other societies are furnishing other supplies but except for a few individual efforts it can not be learned that Janesville is doing anything along this line.

It is not a question of sentiment as to this or that nation that should predominate but the general spirit of trying to do something for the men and women of the foreign nations who are blindly rushing to destruction in this terrible war. One does not have to be pro-German or pro-Ally, to unite in the glorious work of the Red Cross organization.

Why not stir up a little civic pride in this matter, forget bridge and five hundred, eucure, fox trots and afternoon teas, literary clubs and other enjoyments for some genuine work in behalf of suffering humanity. Hardly a European, and even some Asiatic people who have not suffered from the present war. Why not do something to help them bear their burden? Why not aid them in the work of caring for their wounded by sending supplies that will be most welcome. If those interested in this appeal do not know whom to appeal to the Gazette will send the desired information and furnish it gladly. It is a cause worth considering so why not consider it?

ONE FOR ALL. Dumas in his story of the Three Guardsmen originated the phrase "One for all and all for one." This is true of the attitude of the conservative candidates for senatorial state and legislative offices. Headed by Jeffris, Republican candidate for the United States senatorial nomination, down to the aspirant for the legislature they are all active in the cause of the success of the Republican ticket headed by Judge Hughes, in Wisconsin. There is no quibble, no taint on their brand of Republicanism, they are earnest advocates of the principles of the Republican party and they mean to bring about its success if possible.

Wisconsin stepped into the Democratic column two years ago when the progressive republicans shifted their allegiance from the Republican candidate for the United States senate, Frances E. McGovern, to the Democratic aspirant present Senator Paul Hastings. Of course there were other conditions too, but the difference between Hastings and McGovern's total vote was so slight that he knows and the voters know, it was the progressive republicans that defeated him.

This year the Republicans mean to come to their own again in the state. By the election of Philipp, conservative candidate for governor, and a portion of the state legislature republican, it has been demonstrated what could be accomplished if the conservative element of the Republican party were given control of state affairs. The Philipp administration has been seriously hampered by the "tax eaters" and this element will be absent from the halls of the legislature if success is to be obtained.

No one questions Jeffris brand of Republicanism. It is simon pure and unadulterated, all wool and a yard wide. His nomination would do more to redeem the state in the minds of the great Republican majority throughout the country than any other single act of the tax payers of Wisconsin. It would assure the next Republican president of an earnest and hard working supporter of Republican doctrines in the upper house of congress and the isms and chisms of the progressive experimental Wisconsin idea would be obliterated.

In order to show his familiarity with his automobile, it is not necessary for the novice driver to put his foot on the accelerator when getting into a crowded street.

After swigging down a liberal portion of milk shake with which to settle their over-eating of fresh rhubarb pie, many men wonder how so many doctors succeed in making a living.

It must be lots of satisfaction to vote the Socialist or Prohibition ticket. As long as a voter does that, the politicians know they haven't got to pay any attention to what he wants.

The trustful and confiding American people are of course satisfied that the munitions explosion in New York was caused either by the hot weather or an Act of God.

The popular idea of handling the New York infant paralysis epidemic is to encourage the people to get out of the city so as not to spread the infection at home.

Some people's idea of intelligent campaigning is to claim that they will carry the state by four times the majority they have the least expectation of getting.

That munitions explosion in New York harbor would not have attracted so much attention, if it had not been late for July 4 and too early for the customary New Year's frolic.

The principal trouble with that 42 million river and harbor bill is the number of Congressional districts shamelessly left without any share of the pork.

The boys would no doubt be glad to weed the garden if Dad would come along and hold an umbrella over them.

The boys who are again wearing sport shirts this summer fail to make the thing complete by having their hair frizzled.

It is surprising how much better a 1916 model automobile is made just by tagging it 1917.

SECOND SEPARATE COMPANY W. N. G. IS PRESENT TITLE

OFFICIAL LETTER AND REGIMENT WILL BE ASSIGNED LATER.

HAVE RENTED ARMORY

Will Occupy Quarters Over Kemmerer Garage.—Go to State Camp Aug. 21st for Two Weeks' instruction.

Captain Hans Jaekle of the second separate company Wisconsin National Guard, for that is the official title of the new Jansville militia unit, has received his commission and has sworn in his two lieutenants, Henry Friis as first lieutenant and Roy Worthington as second lieutenant, and has appointed Fred Rau, Jr., as second duty sergeant and first sergeant, and George Sherman as quartermaster sergeant.

Further than that, the company has leased the second floor of the Kemmerer garage building on E. Milwaukee street for an armory for a term of six years at a yearly rental of twelve hundred dollars. The building will be remodeled to suit the convenience of the company and will include an officers' room, a non-commissioned staff room, a large drill and locker room and toilet rooms. A new hardwood floor will be laid, and when completed it will be one of the small armories in the state.

Further than this the company is ordered to report at Camp Douglas on August 21st for ten days, inclusive of August 30th, for a field camp of instruction. Battery B, First Field Artillery, Battery C, First Field Artillery, and the company of cavalry, Troop B of Milwaukee and the First Cavalry Company, as well as the recruits now under training at the reservation, will also be present.

When the company will travel in citizens' clothes, their new uniforms and complete equipment being issued to them at the reservation on their arrival. They will sleep in the regulation army tents and be fitted out from head to foot with everything needed for a soldier. The rations served will be the same as those served the regular army for troops in garrison, and each company will have its own company cook and kitchen equipment, which will become part of the company's equipment.

When they return to Jansville, Captain Jaekle announces that there will be night drills in the school of the soldier, including this evening, but not Saturday, until the company leave for their field camp. All members of the company who have not yet taken their physical examination are ordered to do so before next Thursday, so that a complete report can be sent to the adjutant general.

Also taken in and applications can be made to Captain Jaekle or one of the officers of the company. The selection of the members of the company, after several sites had been investigated, and the Kemmerer property was accepted unanimously. The members of the company, who will receive pay for attending drills, agreed to subscribe a portion of their state pay toward the rent of the armory.

The state furnishes handsome steel lockers for each individual member of the company, and these will be placed around the drill hall, which will add materially to its appearance. Captain Jaekle has received letters from Jansville men who are members of companies in other cities, stating that on their return from the service at the border they will transfer to the local Jansville unit, which will materially increase the efficiency of the Jansville unit, as they will have had the weeks of actual experience.

Four men who rode in a car of a well known make, worked the old "hurry up change twenty act" finally making a get-away with the money at McDonald's restaurant during the rush hour at noon today. It is said they worked the same game at Emerald Grove this morning, on their way into the city, a store proprietor being the victim there and ten dollars being the net result of the venture. The police are watching for the suspects of whom they have a good description.

BIG DEMONSTRATION OF IRON HORSES FOR BADGER FARMERS TO BE HELD SOON

In the Wake of the Power Plow.

There are according to good authority about 600 power tractors in use upon farms in Wisconsin. How many will there be in 1925?

The answer rests with the farmer himself, usually alert for the best business opportunities, with time and labor economy strong factors in the final decision of whether to buy or not to buy.

"Why should the man who operates a small farm own a good tractor?"

Here are some of the answers which are being given to that question: More of certain kinds of work can be done, great strength and durability, cheapness of operation, and the increased labor income realized from their use.

In Wisconsin the printed page has thus far been about the only vital medium made use of to bring tractor facts home to roost.

These facts have been as well presented as editorial ingenuity could find possible. The ground has been carefully covered in this way, but the old maxim, "seeing is believing" has not as yet been put to the test, except in a limited, local way.

Farmers here and there have seen their neighbors buy tractors and put them to varied uses, but that cannot be called a general state-wide demonstration.

The time is ripe for a state tractor demonstration of some magnitude. Such a congress of iron horses will be held at Madison early next September. Manufacturers from all parts of the country will bring trainloads of farm power machinery to the demonstration, which will be held on a 1,000-acre tract of land within a short distance from the city.

Here the biggest collection of powerful machines designed to perform the heaviest tasks of agriculture will be shown. That some profitable use may be found for a tractor on nearly every well organized farm, either general or special, will be the object of the big show.

Agricultural engineers from all parts of the country will be on hand to lend assistance in the demonstration.

MUST ADVERTISE FARM PRODUCTS

By E. L. LUTHER, Supervisor of Wisconsin Agricultural Representatives.

Farmers must take more of a hand in marketing their crops. They have the same rights as other producers and, having the same rights, must assume the same responsibilities. They should not think that other people should assume the responsibility of marketing their products.

Most men who market their own wares, no matter what the line of production, advertise.

How few farmers advertise!

Is it any wonder that their markets are poor? What if an automobile concern or patent medicine concern advertised as little as the average farmer? But what if the average Wisconsin farmer did take a notion to advertise? What would he say of his products that would cause people to travel long distances to secure them?

This brings us to the point of production. We find that some Wisconsin farmers do advertise and that when they do advertise we find them advertising standard stuff, purebred cattle, Wisconsin pedigreed grains, Wisconsin varieties of purebred, disease free, certified potatoes, etc.

The Wisconsin farmer who advertises is up to date, he is producing something besides scrub and common stuff and is awake to the value of advertising. He knows the name of his stuff. How many farmers when asked the kind of oats they are growing have to confess that they do not know, or if they do know give you some uncommon name not known to the best Wisconsin pedigreed grain growers.

So the problem of marketing farm crops begins back on the farm with growing something which the world wants, with producing standard stuff.

Wisconsin's agricultural products can go around the world. Wisconsin pedigreed grains are conquering the seed grain markets of the world, Wisconsin potatoes are conquering the seed potato markets of the United States, Wisconsin live stock is conquering the live stock market. But these things must be standardized and kept standardized.

HORSES HAVE VACATION WHILE LAW SUIT IS ON

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE) Appleton, Wis., Aug. 11.—Two horses are in the Kuntz livery barn here enjoying a vacation during the summer months. The animals are taking the rest because of a law suit between William M. Hurst and Barney Rothberg. Rothberg recently sold his farm near Seymour

Keep Calves Growing.

DEEP TRANSPLANTING BEST FOR TOMATOES

"Transplant tomatoes from the hot bed to the garden sometime in May." That is one of the entries to be found upon the planting calendar of successful Wisconsin gardeners. When tomatoes are transplanted hurriedly and without regard for the "sacred rules of the gardener" they frequently survive the ordeal and bear abundantly—but more often they do not, and thereupon the weather, the soil and the variety itself get a "black eye" in the mind of the planter.

If one of the rights of animals is to be well born, then there is a corresponding right possessed by tender plants to be well transplanted. Tomatoes, to thrive well, need a chance to develop a double root system—one set of feeder roots just beneath the surface of the ground, and the other set spreading out below the first one, in the deeper soil.

According to J. R. Helper of the College of Agriculture experienced gardeners get this double root system started by setting the young plants well into the ground, avoiding shallow transplanting.

This is an easy matter with young plants having long rootlets, but when the trowel uncovers a short-rooted plant from the seedling box a new problem is presented.

Then it becomes necessary to trench the plant somewhat by digging a hole long and narrow in shape, and putting not only the root itself, but a portion of the main shoot above it into the ground as well. The part left above ground must be straightened carefully and the soil well packed into the trench to hold it securely.

Getting the tomato roots well into the soil, then, is the chief thing to observe in transplanting. If this is done and the plants are kept well watered and protected from the hot rays of the sun during the first few days, the worst danger at this stage of their culture will be past—except for the outworn menace.

In case of danger from this source, a strong piece of paper may be wrapped about the stalks of the young plants as they are set out, a portion of the paper protector being left above ground. As a still further precaution a few pounds of bran may be mixed with paris green and sweetened with molasses or sugar water and placed under small boards or stones along the rows to bait the outworms.

Trees Make Better Places. Blessed is the man who plants trees, for he makes his home and community a better place.

Daily Thought. Everyone sees what you seem, few know what you are.—Machiavelli.

ORIENTAL TRAPPINGS BECOMING NUMEROUS IN DECORATIVE PLAN

This New Piece of Furniture For Beautification Finds Cheering Gum An Essential Part By Margaret Mason (Written for the Gazette)

A most aesthetic maid is Jenny. For she had but a single penny; yet she spent it for a rose; What she'll do now no one knows New York, Aug. 11.—What Vads worth wrote of Peter Bell, "A primrose on a river's brim a yellow primrose was to him and nothing more," applies just as truly to all the Peter Bells of today and most every Tom Dick and Harry besides, to say nothing of a few Janes and Bettys.

The yellow primrose in a low blue bowl is one of the Japanese bronze flower holders, add a hand painted butterfly tremblingly poised and vibrant on a long slender wire, fassen kochia, blue bird on the edge of the bowl with a bit of a butterfly gum and a painted glass butterfly on the other, with the rest of your gum stick and lo, even Peter Bell would see something more than the jaundiced primrose.

These new Japanese flower arrangements certainly are attractive. They make more effective a flower or two than a huge mass of them. Even the humblest of flowers become elevated to as decorative heights as her more costly and exotic sisters. In loose clusters of field daisies and red clover arranged in a shallow bowl of green or mauve becomes an acme of beauty.

Wonderous in variety, coloring and shape are the lovely shallow dishes for the flowers. The best of these are those of glass painted with some one solid color. Black, perhaps is the most effective.

Many accessories that go to make up a perfect whole of an artistic flower arrangement are indeed startling. In the old days of stiff set bouquets, if we had the flowers, there was the water we said "sufficiency."

Now at least one hand painted bird of glass or china is a necessity to poise deftly and gumminy on the edge of the bowl. A butterfly of like manufacture is also almost essential, and then the ones quivering on the wire do add so much.

There are also waxed paper pond lilies to float on the water, tiny green and red glass fish to gleam on the bottom of the bowl. The fish and the lilies are really more effective in the bowls of crystal or transparent colored glass. The pottery bowls and Chinese porcelains of deep yellows, purples, greens and odd blues show up the gorgeously painted bird and butterfly. If you want something truly lovely, some purple iris in a bowl of turquoise blue or nasturtiums in a bowl of brass.

From the Japanese influence in our decorations we leap lightly to Chinese influence in our other home furnishings.

Wooden bedrooms and dining rooms done in Chinese lacquer furniture are pleasing and artistic to a high degree. Chinese lacquer lamps, floor or table lamps, are stunning in black or red lacquer with gold decorations and pagoda shaped shades.

Mirrors, tall, long or square are framed in lacquer and some ornate have inset panels of gilded Chinese wood carving with gorgeous Chinese tassels dangling from their corners.

Pieces of Chinese brocade and embroidery, deck pianos, tables and chairs and all over gleams a golden glow of lights in handpainted Chinese lanterns of oiled silk.

All we need to do further is to light a punk stick or two and we have the real Oriental atmosphere as well as immunity from mosquitoes.

CLAIMS WOMEN HOLD BALANCE OF POWER

Twelve Western Women Suffrage States Can Change Results of Election, Says Suffrage Advocate.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Colorado Springs, Colo., Aug. 11.—Declaring that only a small turnover of votes was needed in any of the twelve western woman suffrage states to change the result of the presidential election in November, Mrs. William Kent, of Kentfield, Cal., wife of Representative Kent, national chairman of the Wilson Non-Partisan League, tonight told the representatives of the woman's party gathered here in conference that they held in their hand the power to secure a federal amendment enfranchising the women of the nation.

The time has come for the fulfillment of this dream which many years ago came into the vision of Susan B. Anthony and a few other women, but which gradually spread until today it is the desire of a vast majority of the women all over the United States, said Mrs. Kent. "The women today have the political power to demand their rights, and they propose to see to it that justice be done to every woman in the United States."

Only a small percentage of the more than 4,000,000 women votes in the west will be sufficient to determine the election results at the polls in November. Not all of these women will vote with the woman's party, some of them dividing along old party lines. Many women will remain away from the polls, so will many men. That will not alter the result, and does not change the import, and the woman's party for the best interest of the federal government, amendment will have a balance of power vital to the interest, not only of the political party desiring our support, but vital also to the cause of woman suffrage in the United States. The women of the west will not fail in their duty to themselves and to the nation, and the task so worthily begun by those before us who have worked to

ON PLEASURE BENT.

Bye, Baby Bunting, Mamma's gone a-hunting, Through the summer rains and gales, Hunting for the bargain sales.

The Bulgarian forty-seven day clock struck thirteen after seven as Inspector Blibbs carried the stranger's bruised and senseless form into the great detective's apartments.

"Found him on Magoniss street, sir, unconscious under a barkle tree," explained the inspector as he saluted. "Never saw so many different kinds of bruises on one man before, I judge he must have been attacked by at least fourteen hands of thugs. Can't make head or tail of it, sir."

The great detective rubbed his hands and examined the senseless man minutely. Then he went carefully through his pockets and removed a half frankfurter, a roll, a rattle ring and the other half of the frankfurter.

"Very simple, inspector," he said, "as soon as I saw the bruises I recognized most of them, and decided the man had been having an afternoon of innocent pleasure on the amusements at Foxy Island. These things in his pocket prove it. These follow my finger as I point out the various species of bruises. Loop-the-loop, ping-the-barrel, flip-the-flop, hitch-the-coo, bump-the-bumps, and smash-the-smasher. The other eight are unfamiliar to me. To put it briefly, the man has been to pleasure bent, not to say mangled."

At that moment the man opened both black-and-blue eyes and affirmed the "great detective's" deductions, told them where he lived, and was taken home by Inspector Blibbs.

Mabel Normand.

Mabel Normand's bump of originality has prompted a unique joy giver for the soldiers at the front. The conventional cigars and chewing gum and magazines didn't appeal to her as discomfort alleviators, so she cast about for something different. She discovered it, "it" is a one-reel comedy limited edition, made by Mabel herself in the spare time between scenes on her feature picture. Mabel is recruiting, masquerading first as a soldier and then as an officer, and ending up being just Mabel herself. This picture is not for sale.

Bessie Barriscale in "Not My Sister."

A striking novelty, introduced for the first time in the Triangle play, "Not My Sister," at the Beverly on Saturday, is a device technically known as a transparent iris. On the principal character is portrayed as under a spotlight, while the minor characters in the scene are distinguished but faintly. This Director Thos. H. Ince aims, centers the attention of the spectators upon the individual work of the principals and aids in "getting over" the desired effect better than a close-up.

Bessie Barriscale and Wm. Desmond are co-stars in "Not My Sister."

"GATES OF DIVORCE" TO BE NOVELIZED

The success of the photoplay, "Gates of Divorce," has encouraged the author, Robert Burns, in the belief that the novel form is just finishing from the scenario will have an equal success. Miss Gertrude McCoy starred in this production and was complimented by Mr. Burns for the manner in which she developed the character of the heroine.

He did not complete the novel while awaiting the production of the photoplay, as he wished to take advantage of whatever the picture might suggest to him. He has now begun the final revision with the picture in mind. The novel will probably contain about 90,000 words.

OH, BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Have you told your troubles to Beatrice Fairfax? If so, beware! You are apt to see your tragic life story on the screen in a new serial. Every episode is to be complete in itself, each chapter to depict some story of human love and romance, of jealousy and longing that she has learned from the love lore.

Grace Darling is to play the role of Beatrice Fairfax, with Harry Fox opposite. "The Story of the Missing Watchman" is the title of the first episode.

A Romance of Billy Goat Hill, five-reel subject, is story written with southern atmosphere. The colonel's daughter is taken by Myrtle Gonzalez. Val Paul appears as the lover, Fred Church as the heavy, and others in the cast are George Hernandez, Thomas Jefferson, Frankie Lee, Jack Conolly and Jack Currie.

T. R. please note: Bessie Barriscale, unable to discover another river of doubt in the vicinity of Thousand Pines in the mountains near Bear Lake Valley, California, where she is working, has done the next best thing. She has captured a unique bird, the like of which local ornithologists have never seen before. The add member of the feathered tribe has been named "a nut eating Gaspump."

Music of Living.

All one's life is music if one touches the notes rightly and in time. But there must be no hurry. There is no music in a rest, but there's the making of music in it. ## FOR STRONG ARM JOB FAIR FOLLOWER GETS 6 MONTHS SENTENCE

Quick Justice to Young Half Breed
Indian Who With Four Companions Robs Concession Man.

The fair park police brigade broke into the twilight with the arrest this morning of one of a gang of five of a strong arm crew who pulled a "job" last night.

After Theodore Miller, a special officer at the fair grounds, early this morning discovered Erwin Meyer, fair follower, half unconscious, wounded and bleeding, near the fair grounds and heard his story, a little sleuthing caused the arrest of Jim Swan, a swine with the John Blackman stables, as one of the five who had beat up and robbed Meyer.

Swan is now in the county jail with a six months' commitment law sentence hanging over him as a result of his part in the robbery.

Meyer lost twenty dollars and a watch. He got back about eight dollars and the timepiece after the police had searched Swan. According to his story the men attempted to strong arm, shortly after eleven o'clock on North Main street last night. He resisted and they beat him up, and then while he was still groggy loaded him into an auto and took him to the fair grounds, where they went through his pockets, taking over twenty dollars besides the watch.

Search of the grounds failed to find the other four implicated in the job. Swan claimed he did not know them and had never met them before last night. He is a half-breed Indian and nineteen years of age.

VOLUNTEER SURGEON WINS NOBEL PRIZE

Returns After Months of Captivity in Russia to Learn He Has Taken
Medal in Medicine.

Vienna, Aug. 11.—Entering the war as a volunteer, surgeon little known outside the circle of specialists of his own class, Dr. Robert Barany of Vienna, after fifteen months of captivity in Russia, has at last returned as an "exchange" invalid before himself famous as the Nobel prize winner in medicine.

The knowledge which was the basis of his prize-winning book was gained chiefly as surgeon in Przemyśl, the book itself was written in captivity. It has brought him 400,000 crowns in money, and it played no small part in securing his release from Turkey.

The dramatic circumstances surrounding his achievement have greatly heightened the effect of his return to his family. Nominally he was permitted to leave Russia because he is slightly lame from an affection of one foot from which he has suffered since a child. Actually, the efforts of Prince Karl of Sweden, went far to secure his exchange.

Despite his lameness, Dr. Barany volunteered for service at the outbreak of the war, and was designated chief surgeon of the surgical department of a hospital in Przemyśl. It was while there, as he modestly explains, that he was "so fortunate as to discover a new treatment for head wounds," a discovery that enabled him to cure a vastly greater percentage of cases than before.

For weeks after the fall of Przemyśl the Russian commander allowed the Austrian physicians to remain. Then in transports of about 100 they were sent to various parts of Russia, many to Siberia, the surgeon and many others to Turkistan. Unlike many others, Dr. Barany on his return was reported almost universally as a treatment in captivity, treatment that included a sufficient amount of decent food, liberty not too restricted and pleasant professional relations with Russian commanders and colleagues. Dr. Barany was given fairly ample opportunity to study to practice and to lecture on his specialty to Russian captive Austrian physicians.

TO USE INDIAN FUND FOR THEIR WELFARE

Three Hundred Thousand Dollar
Fund Set Aside by Congress
Will be Used to Improve Farms.

Neopit, Wis., Aug. 11.—A large number who made claims to benefits under the $300,000 fund set aside by congress for the Menominee tribe of Indians will not be permitted to share in the money, according to the enrollment committee which has just completed its work of examining the tribal roll.

The money is to be used in clearing lands, erecting buildings, purchasing livestock and machinery for support. There will also be a sufficient amount of money deposited to the credit of each family to allow them to make a good start.

Many persons who are not of Menominee blood but of some other tribe or a mixture of white and Indian blood have been eliminated in sharing of the money.

Children of Indian mothers and white fathers who have lived away from the reservation for a number of years and afterwards returned and affiliated with the tribe, are also barred from sharing in the land or money which will be distributed among members of the tribe.

Blasts by Engineer.

Fort Atkinson, Aug. 10.—R. C. Jortz, foreman of this city was instantly killed by an extra, north bound freight about two miles south of here at 1:30 yesterday morning. He was seen by the engine crew for some distance ahead of the train and was given repeated warnings to get off the track, but did not attempt to do so until the train was almost upon him when he stepped aside and in doing so was caught by the pilot.

He had held for several years the position of foreman in the composing room of the Hoard's Dairyman publishing house where he had given excellent satisfaction. He was forty-three years of age. He is survived by the widow and three young children.

LARGE BRIEF FILED IN INSURANCE CASE

Voluminous Evidence Filed in Case of
Neal Brown Against Stock
Casualty Companies.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 11.—One of the largest briefs filed here in a legal litigation was presented to the insurance department and industrial commission today in the case of Neal Brown, of Wausau, against nineteen principal stock casualty insurance companies charging rate discriminations and asking that the companies should be ousted from the state. The brief is filed by Crowhart & Vyle, the nineteen companies are members of the workmen's compensation bureau.

"As expressing its objects the doings of the bureau must prevail over its sayings, for we submit that this combine, although remarkable and unique in many respects, is no exception to the proverb, 'By their fruits ye shall know the tree.' Mr. Crowhart, in the concluding paragraph of his brief, 'Behind every dollar spent by the bureau, behind every move it has made, behind every vaunted undertaking advanced here as evidence of good faith, we find the sinister hand of monopoly.'

The companies were defended at the hearing by J. L. Butler, who will file the reply brief within a few days. Upon the evidence the commission of insurance will then make its findings. Out of this hearing has grown then the reply brief within a few days. Out of this hearing has grown then the reply brief within a few days. ## TOBACCO GROWERS OFFERED GOOD PRICE

Riders Attempting to Contract For Crop in Field Over Range From Twelve To Fifteen Cents

National tobacco corporation riders are offering as high as fourteen cents per pound, contract price, for leaf in the field, at present according to a number of growers who were interviewed on the subject at the Janesville Fair today.

One farmer announced himself as surprised that such a price should be offered at this early date and in refusing to enter into a contract said, "You can offer fourteen and fifteen cents now, with all danger of field damage, hail, storm, etc., and shedding, the danger of shed burn then I think I'll hang on to mine and take a chance for better prices at shedding time or at shipping."

Up near Porter and Cookville riders this week were offering twelve and thirteen cents. Some growers made contracts but reports from the vicinity indicate that the farmers believe that better prices are to be had during the fall and as a result many are holding out.

The crop is progressing nicely now and some extra fine weed is now to be seen. A little more rain such as fell during this morning would be welcomed and would improve the crop materially.

LONDON WOMEN COPPERS MAKING GOOD CHIEF SAYS

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

London, Aug. 11.—Women police are making good according to the chief officer of the Women's Police force. They are employed in maintenance factories very largely to search the incoming and outgoing mail workers for contraband, keep order in trains, to inspect passports and to patrol the lanes and yards. They get $10 weekly with railway fares, sergeants receive eleven dollars and inspectors twelve dollars. The chief officer says school teachers are particularly wanted for the force as their training fits them admirably for police duties which require good temper, patience and tact with firmness. The girls in the factories seem to be very fond of the women police and the government are asking for more to be appointed at various munition works throughout the country.

VIENNA RESTRICTS USE OF COFFEE; A WAR SAVING

Vienna, Aug. 11.—The long-dreaded restriction in the use of coffee, which is to Vienna what beer is to Munich, has come at last, bringing with it coffee cards entitling each person over four years old to half a pound of coffee a week and confiscation of all coffee now on hand to prevent hoarding.

The government order announcing the step contained one saving clause, however. It exempts from restriction the supplies needed by restaurants and coffee houses, which means that Vienna will still be able to pursue its favorite pastime of sipping coffee "black" or "brown" on the sidewalks in front of the innumerable resorts that line every boulevard and street.

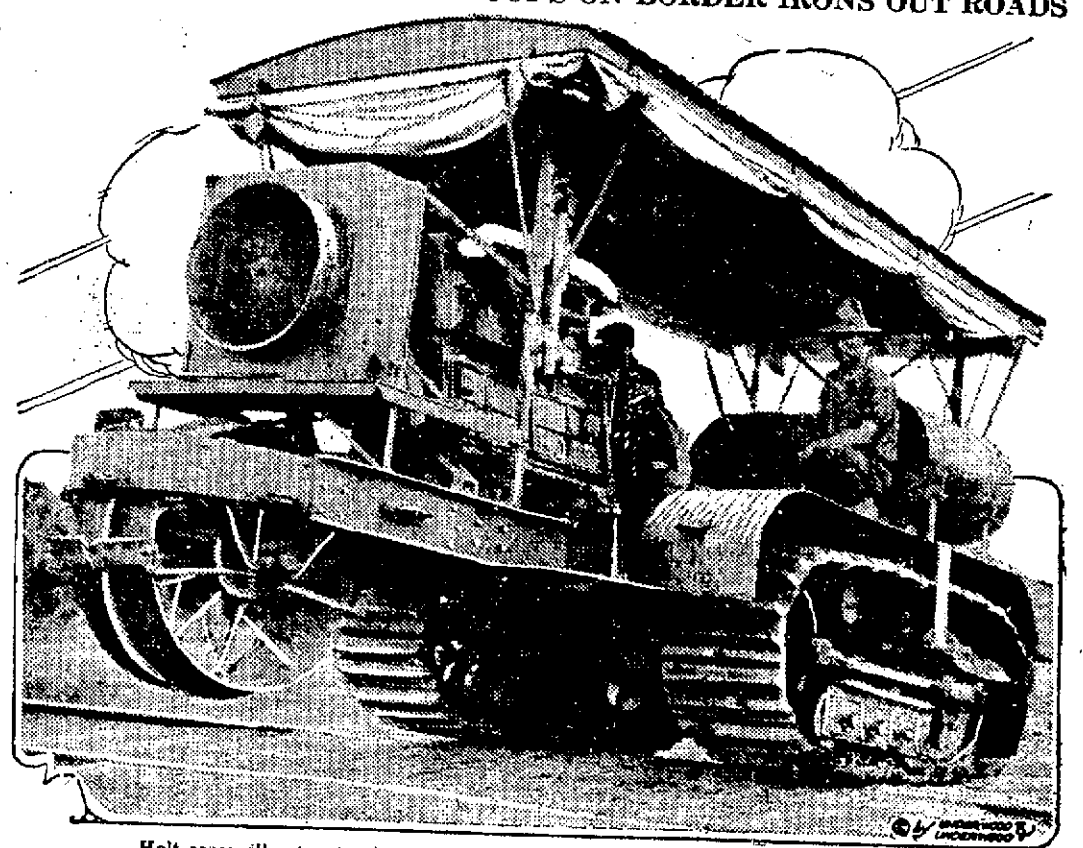

Every coffee store, wholesale and retail, has been required to notify the authority of its exactly supply of coffee over 100 kilograms (220 lbs.). The excess in each case is then subject to the control of a "Coffee central," which in future will regulate the disposal of the product to the public, and have charge of all coffee that in future comes into the country.

The coffee cards will be issued by districts and a card in one district cannot be used in another. They are non-transferable, so that the rare person who does not use coffee cannot pass his or her card on to a friend.

SOX DROP TO THIRD; REDS TROUCE THEM

Carriagan Crew Defeat Rowlands Eleven to Five in Game Minus Thrills Yesterday.

After trouncing the White Sox, 11 to 5 yesterday, Boston today looks like the one best bet today for the American league pennant. While the Sox looked like anything but near champions, the Red Legs were sparkling all over with championship form. Red, Russell, Eddie Collins, Ray Schalk and even the entire Rowland crew played as though they were in a curling night mare nature.

The battle was for first place. Boston got it and Cleveland went into second and the Sox back to third. Red Sox was picked as the pitcher, but he was sent to the bench for Danforth, who did worse, and then Rowland called on Williams and he was worse than his predecessors. George Foster was the big boy for the Red Legs and traveled with regular big league playing the Sox should have nosed ahead in about the fifth and would have won easily had they had this luck.

BROWNS STILL CLIMB; NOW IN FOURTH PLACE

Final Victory Over Washington Yesterday Puts St. Louis Team in Fifth—Win By Shutout.

By cleaning up the Nationals yesterday, 4 to 0, the Browns won five from Washington and set a mark of nineteen games out of twenty-one making fifth place. Koeb held Washington to five hits and was saved in the out. Marsans picked three on and one out, and Miller squeezed the liner off, although falling to his knees.

In the fourth Pratt went to second on a muff by Banks. Severid singled, Lavan tripled and Wallace singled, scoring three runs for the Browns.

NATIONAL ROWING REGATTA STARTS AT DULUTH TODAY

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Duluth, Minn., Aug. 11.—Crack oarsmen from all over the United States are here today to compete in the annual championship scull and gig races, called the National Rowing Regatta, directed by the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen under the auspices of the Duluth Boat club. The regatta will end tomorrow.

Among the better known sportsmen of this class present were: Fred Fortmeyer, James Pilkington and John O. Regan of New York; James Denigre of St. Paul, R. H. Pelton of Brooklyn, James Fox and George McGrath of Boston, John Coogan of Springfield, Mass.; J. V. Lottrop of Detroit and H. P. Burke and Charles Preisandaz of Philadelphia.

This is the first time the regatta has come west for four years. It never has been west of Peoria, Ill., Lynn, Mass., and Buffalo made a strong bid for the regatta this year, but to bring in as many western amateurs as possible it was thought best to give the event to Duluth, where Barnes of the Duluth club is the man who won the day with his arguments before the association's committee.

PIPP'S WILD PEG COSTLY TO YANKS; CLEVELAND WINS

Pipp's wild throw in the ninth inning gave the Indians the final game from the Yankees 3 to 2, and made it three straight for Cleveland. The victory sent the Indians into second place, as Chicago was beaten by Boston.

Does Miller Huggins think well of Roger Hornsby? It seems that he thinks as well of Roger as he does of his own job. Recently there was a rumor abroad that the Brooklyn Dodgers were going to buy Hornsby, and Ruggins solemnly assured the Cardinal management that if they sold the kid he would quit as manager.

Sport Snap Shots

MORRIS MILLER

"Lord" Byron, National league ump, finally got a little of what's been coming to him. He's at right perhaps on his job, but a bit too gruff and menacing. The fans don't love him greatly. The other day in a game at Brooklyn a clever fan returned a foul from the grandstand and beamed Byron right smartly on the bean.

The Cubs put through a queer deal when they sent Frank Schulte to the Pirates with Catcher Bill Fischer for Art Wilson. Here's Schulte, the last of the old Cubs, who is certainly a big favorite with Cub fans, turned over in so heartless a way. What's more, he has been playing one of the greatest games of his career and batting a great clip well over three hundred. But most especially it's astounding to see that he was not the main figure in the deal, but simply tossed in as boot. There have been queer deals in baseball before and this is another one.

The Pirates have a person on their payroll who is said to be a diverting performer. His name is Dan Costello and he's a bosom friend of Al Mauer. That's probably the only reason why he's in the big league. Once in a while he gets into a game with the Pirates and as his performing is pretty poor stuff he spends all the time he can bullying the other players and the spectators. He's fond of getting into wrangles with anyone willing to talk back. Recently at New York he was especially loud and spent most of the afternoon insulting everyone who came out and fight him. It would have been funny if it hadn't been so offensive. This sort of rough stuff goes all right once in a while from a star like John Evers or Heinie Zim, but a rookie with no class at all should be offered the gate.

Oscar Horstman is a pitcher recently acquired by the Cards from Los Angeles, where he had been very wild and erratic till Frank Chance cured him of it. Chance knew that the youngster had lots of speed and stuff, but he could only and the plate, and Frank set about to fix him through the use of mental suggestion. "Listen," says Frank, "you are whatever you think you are. If you think you're a bird you can fly. Just think that you've got control and you're cured." It seemed to work. Every time Oscar walked out to the box he said to himself, "I ain't wild; I got perfect control." They ought to try this on some of the umps and have them murmur, "I ain't blind. I got a fine eye."

McL Eason, National league umpire and ex-Cincinnati pitcher, is a real wild west cowboy, but though he doesn't look it. He is owner of the Umpire.

HARRY WOLTER LOOKS LIKE YOUNGEST VET

Harry Wolter.

Harry Wolter, Los Angeles outfielder, was recently sought by the Pirates, but the Los Angeles management refused to let him go. Wolter quit the big leagues several years ago with a broken leg, but returned to the game on the coast and has been batting a clip beyond .300.

ROY HARTZELL, VET, SENT TO THE MINORS

Roy Hartzell.

Roy Hartzell, the Yank outfielder and utility player, after years of dependable though not brilliant service in the big leagues has been shipped to the bushes. He will go to Baltimore. Hartzell has been in fast company since 1906.

Harry Hempstead, owner of the Giants, and Captain Huston, owner of the Yanks, went out to the Empire City race track a while ago with no intention of betting, but came home with fat roles. They discovered there a horse running named Hank O'Day and it looked like a hunch. So they both put up $100 on the horse and he brought home ahead of the favorite, bringing them both over three times their investment.

It's been quite a while since this stage of the season has shown less certainty in both leagues there's no one willing to say that they have the rag on ice. It would be hard to find anywhere the critic who could pick either league's winner. In the National league Brooklyn has not given up hopes yet by any means, the Boston fans think they are all set for a dash for the rag and Pat Moran's Phillies are still hot after it. In the American league the race is even tighter and the winner harder to pick. The last sports aren't far away and there's going to be lots of excitement.

Dave Robertson was the first National league batter to gather 100 hits. The hundredth he picked off about a week ago.

The Pirates may not be winning many pennants but they have one little distinction of their own. They have on their payroll the oldest and youngest stars in the business. If you can pick an older star than Honus—he's batting something like .317, so help up!—or a younger one than Al Mauer, you can have our choicest shirt. These boys not only go the limit in the matter of age and youth—Wagner's 42 and Mauer's is 23—but also they are towers of strength in their own department.

With more high-class competition the tennis dope is being upset with greater frequency and things that have happened in eastern tournaments this summer would distract one who tried to account for them. The only reasonable answer is that many of the stars are so evenly matched that when one is enjoying a flash of his highest form and another feels a slight slump there is a surprising defeat and upset. It has happened lots of times this season.

Consider the case of Clarence Griffith, the California tennis star. He astonished one and all not long ago by beating Norris Williams in nice shape. And then to show it wasn't a fluke he trimmed Theodore R. Felli. Shortly after comes Joe Armstrong of Philadelphia and beats Griffin. Armstrong is a star, but acrobatically with Williams and Felli. And that's the sort of thing that makes a hit with your tennis fan. All the time there's some dope to gossip over. Baseball is thought to be full of fortune's caprices, but it can't be mentioned with tennis.

Everyday Wisdom

By DON HEROLD

A FAT UTOPIA

This is a suggestion for the reorganization of society on the basis of everyone wanting to be fat. Think of the strife that that would take out of the world. Obesity is a symbol of peace, of contentment, of resignation, and is the cloak of a cheerful mind. Politics, reformations, renaissances, art and militarism have all failed. We are about in the same stage of personal and national and international fretfulness that we were a thousand years ago. Now, let's everybody sit down and want to be fat. We have had our serious ideals; now let's try a foolish ideal.

Imagine a rollicking, happy, genial, round and rosy world of fat people—fatness wobbling by on every side, good-natured people filling the sidewalks; dray horses lolled lazily through streets which now clatter; corner cops turning with levitation grace and beckoning traffic with a broad smile; roly-poly newshawks instead of the screeching, scrawny species we have now; all life as pacific as a spring day.

There would be the good, old German Emperor, fat and contented, and likewise the kings of England, France and Russia—all wanting nothing but fatness and happiness.

Business men would adopt the motto: "Fatness before business." The American dollar could be made larger, so it would be easier to get, and, in keeping with the new national ideal of avoidupolis, it might be re-engraved with a jovial, double-chinned fat lady instead of the present stern person.

There would be no such things as love and hate and jealousy and other passions which take off weight.

Everything would be all right. A fat world would be Utopia.

The Master's Reception Evening

By REV. HOWARD W. POPE of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago

TEXT—Not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together.—Heb. 10:25.

I. The ideal prayer meeting never happens. If it is a good meeting, somebody has put prayer and thought and work into it. The laws of grace are as rigid, too, as the laws of nature.

"Heaven may be had for the asking," says the poet, but the ideal prayer meeting cannot. It is as true here as elsewhere that "whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap."

Hence the leader should prepare carefully. The hymns can be selected; one person can be asked to pray for the sick, another for the absent, and so on. Attention to details helps immensely. But especially should the leader wait upon God in prayer until his heart burns with love, and his soul is sensitive to the faintest whisper of the Holy Spirit. If athletes train for a boat race or a ball game, simply to secure the applause of people, surely the Christian can afford to train for a spiritual conflict where all the forces of heaven and hell are arrayed against each other, where eternal destinies are at stake, and where every part of the service is watched with keenest solicitude by "so great a cloud of witnesses."

Not only the leader, but all the members should prepare. Let them read, think and pray over the subject. Let them deny themselves daily, for a godly life is the best preparation for an ideal meeting. Let them gather up spiritual strength all the week and concentrate it upon this service, making it the supreme hour of the week, the hour

When heaven comes down our souls to greet,
And glory crowns the mercy-seat.

II. The ideal prayer meeting has an object as well as a subject—a definite object, never to be forgotten by the leader or the workers.

What is that subject? It is not simply to have an interesting meeting. A service may be interesting, and yet be so devoid of spirituality as to suggest only "sounding brass and tinkling cymbals." The real object is to awaken spiritual emotion, to bring the soul face to face with God, to kindle fires of devotion until the altar is all ablaze with the sacrifice of willing hearts, and there comes over the audience that indescribable thrill and holy hush which betokens the presence of God, and which makes every heart ready to say, "O God, thy will be done."

This is the true object of a prayer meeting—to bring every soul to the point where it is willing to do its duty, so that decisions may be made and results may be secured, right then and there. At the close of a meeting where the theme was temperance the tide of feeling rose so high that 64 young men and women signed a total abstinence pledge and thereby completely revolutionized the temperance sentiment of that church.

Whatever the subject of the meeting, never lose sight of the object. Feeling which does not lead to action is of questionable value.

III. The ideal meeting is cheerful, social and hearty. Have a bright carpet on the floor, appropriate pictures on the wall, flowers on the table, and the room seated with chairs. Make it look as little like a church, and as much like a home as possible. Lay off hats, wraps and overshoes.

Have a "smile-em-up committee" at the door to welcome strangers and to distribute the audience widely—the small boys apart from each other, the workers near the unconverted, and the timid ones near the more spiritual.

Into this "rest for the weary" come with your thanksgiving and rejoicing. Make the welkin ring with song. Let the most spiritual members lead in prayer until a strong devotional atmosphere has been created, which will make it easy for anyone to confess Christ.

Be cheerful! Paul had his discouragements, but he kept them to himself. Cultivate the habit of handshaking, and do not wait for an introduction. In short, strive to be

One of the spirit chosen by heaven to turn
The sunside of things to human eyes.

IV. The ideal meeting is one in which all take part. There are some things that lie within the reach of all. You can fill up the front seats, and thus support the leader. You can speak early in the meeting, and one sentence then is worth a dozen later on.

Anyone can repeat a verse of Scripture, and if it is selected with care and prayer, God will use it to strengthen the saints and to carry conviction to sinners. Remember that the Word of God is the sword of the Spirit. Use it for a purpose, and expect results.

Cultivate Love of Home.
Love of home and of what the home stands for converts the drudgery of daily routine into a high order of social service.—Ellen Richards.

THE INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

Third Quarter: Lesson VII: 2 Corinthians IX: August 13, 1916.

THE GRACE OF GIVING.

This startling paradox is always presenting itself. God is an independent Being. Any other conception of Him is unworthy and derogatory. He asserts His independence when He declares the cattle on a thousand hills to be His own. In one short swift word he says he does not hang upon man, when he cries, "If I were hungry I would not tell thee." He would not need to. It takes a whole universe to serve as His store-closet and it is always full.

How astonishing to find this supreme, independent Being, doing the garb and using the language of a suppliant. He wants a house and he must needs ask His people to build it for Him. He even is glad to get two mites from a poor widow. The dependence of independence! What an impossible proposition! It is the supreme paradox. Who shall reconcile such a clash of terms which seem so contradictory and mutually exclusive.

It can only be that the dependence of God is relative, that absolute, assumed and not inherent. If this be so, it is not far to find the reason of this assumption. God has nothing to gain by it. He takes on His dependence not for His advantage, but for that of His creatures. The proprietor of all things asks an offering from His people. He approaches as a suppliant. He makes Himself poor. But it is not for His own sake. It is for the sake of his people.

Is God's way of killing a vice and creating a virtue. The vice is covetousness, the ugliest of them all, trunk-root of every evil in the soul. It is covetousness which converts the would-be worshipper of God into the idolator. * * * * * God is in dead earnest to root this evil vice out of the human heart. His way is to use the explosive power of the opposite virtue. For this reason the Independent becomes dependent. The Creator asks alms of the creature.

* * * * * But though this dependence is assumed it is none the less real. All the enterprises of the Kingdom wait upon the voluntary gifts of the people. There are no "Miracles in Missions" or in any other phase of the Lord's work. All is the logical result of intelligent devotion of human means and persons to the Lord's work.

The Teacher's Lantern.
When St. Paul follows the words "your zeal hath provoked with 'ye may be ready.'" He is combining with consummate skill, as he has, sharp exhortation with tacit praise. * * * * "God loves a cheerful giver." The word "cheerful" in the original is "hilarious." It might have been transferred from the Greek text without translation, "God loves an hilarious giver."

The charge of other Christian duties may bring one near to Christ, but Christian benevolence puts the one who exercises it along side of Christ, as an imitator of his divine benevolence. * * * * * It is in the power of the humblest disciple to hasten the millennium by intelligent and whole-hearted consecration. The "thousand years" is just that period (definite and indefinitely long space) in which there is substantial righteousness in the earth with its concomitants, peace and joy.

Anyone imagines the church collection a modern expedient let him turn to this appeal of St. Paul. It has been said that from her cradle the church has faced the contribution box. * * * * * St. Paul uses consummate skill in his appeal. He employs a variety of motives, all worthy; but some of high degree, and others of lower; so that Christian of various degrees of development may each be touched by an appeal suited to them.

Thus in this instance a worthy pride and spirit of emulation are appealed to. Also the hope of reward. But the highest motive is used in addition. Benevolence is pictured as an act performed toward God. Conscience is the spirit in which it is done is the important part of it. It must be cheerful. It must not be a matter of impulse, but one pondered in the heart. Faith in God can be shown by its boundfulness. Niggardiness is ruled out. * * * * * Aside from philanthropy St. Paul evidently hoped this contribution would help heal the breach between Jewish and Gentile Christians. It was a deed of generosity on the part of the latter toward the former.

St. Paul followed his own advice: "Provide things honest in the sight of all men." He associated with himself certain irreproachable men to audit his accounts, and to help him carry the offering to Jerusalem and make the final disbursement. * * * * * In this particular instance the gift requested was for the relief of the poverty-stricken Christians in Jerusalem. Times were very evil there. Values were depreciated, work scarce. Social conditions were unstable, revolution in the air. The city was within twelve years of its awful siege and ruin. All suffered, but the Christians most, on account of what was esteemed their unpatriotic perversion from the faith. They were sedulously boycotted. They had no means at command with which to quit the city. They must be helped in their dire extremity. The case was imperative.

en and hold it there unshaken and unsullied.

August 20, 1916. Luke 11:40-52. GROWTH: BODY, MIND, SPIRIT.
Growth must be symmetrical. Anything else spells abnormality and is an actual disaster. A pigmy mind in a giant body is a travesty. On the other hand, strong and trained intellect unaccompanied by the graces of the spirit is even more repulsive and beset by a positive menace to society. Special accent has been put of late upon physical culture. This offsets in part the results of long neglect which came of erroneous notions and tends to restore the balance. The "sound body" of the ancient is being recovered. On the other hand the faculties of the mind are something divine: to think, reason, remember, imagine, are powers that lift the possessors to a plane little short of being God. To fail to use or to misuse such gifts is a sin of sins. To think clearly, strongly, rightly and to keep thinking, is a moral obligation of first order. Finally the cultivation of the spiritual graces of the soul is the supreme duty. These are the priceless jewels in the crown of human life.

COLORADO BULL MOOSERS DECIDING WHO TO DO ABOUT HUGHES

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Denver, Colo., Aug. 11.—Whether to disband or to name a third state ticket was to be decided at the state assembly of the Progressive party opening here today.

The Progressive state central committee is on record as opposed to an outright endorsement of Charles E. Hughes for president. The committee adopted a substitute motion leaving Bullmoosers free to act independently nationally. It was not expected that today's convention would overthrow this action.

The call for the assembly showed a possible total of 455 delegates based on the Progressive party's vote in Colorado at the last state election but the attendance today was considerably under the maximum number.

Many former Progressives have rejoined the Republican party. Clarence P. Dodge of Springfield has been mentioned for Progressive nomination for governor but it was not certain a state ticket would be named today.
